

Old Huntington Cemetery - "Old Burying Ground"

as provided by Roberet C. Hughes, Esq., Huntington Town Historian

The following file is a copy of the inventory of internments at the "Old Burial Ground in Huntington." The inventory was begun in 1895 and continued into the 1930s and 40s. Also included is a map of the cemetery. As you will see the cemetery is divided into 5 sections. The original listing started numbering graves at 1 for each section. The enclosed list is alphabetical by section. The numbers to the left of the name refer to the original numbered lists. The following explanation of the numbering may help. "Many of the stones listed are no longer legible or extinct. Unfortunately, the burying ground has been the site of many incidents of vandalism over the years. The town is currently formulating plans for restoration of the cemetery, including transferring the list to a searchable computer database. In the meantime I hope you find this listing helpful in your research.

Huntington Rural is located on New York Avenue - NY 110 - south of Huntington Village, about 1/3 of the way towards the LIRR depot, which is current Huntington Station. Today, the rural cemetery extends over the hill and backs up on Oakwood Road.

This list of grave stones in the "Old Burying Ground" was first compiled by Mr. Edwin Dusenberry in 1895; added to by Mrs. Reginald Runge; and this copy made by Roy E. Lott, Town Historian, in December 1956.

Many of the stones are defaced at this time, and but for the work of Mr. Dusenberry and Mrs. Runge, no record would be available, as complete as this.

No doubt some graves existed at the time of the erection of Fort Golgotha, which were obliterated by the English, and of which we have no record.

This list contains 1246 names.

NOTE Regarding Huntington Cemeteries:

Old Huntington Cemetery or "Burial Ground" is on the National Register of Historic Places; it was the site of Fort Golgotha built during the last few years of the British occupation of Huntington during the Revolution ... CA. 1781/82 the fort was built, destroying many older gravestones.

The cemetery is located at the junction of Main Street - NY 25A- and Nassau Road in Huntington Village. Originally, this was the burying ground for what is now Old First Presbyterian Church. It was their second cemetery, opened about 1720 or so. The original cemetery was located near the present church building on 25A and is inside present Heckscher Park, near the corner of Main Street - NY 25A- and Spring Street. The old mill ponds of Ezra Conklin Prime's thimble factories are now duck ponds in the park.

Huntington Rural is a different place than Old Huntington. Huntington Rural was opened as a commercial cemetery in 1853. It has lots of pre-1853 burials as people [like those from the Lemuel Carll plot] were moved there from farm cemeteries. Huntington Historical has an excellent Index to the 1990s.
